

the 1990s, the number of people in the world who are illiterate has increased by 100 million.

There are many reasons for this. One is that the population of the world is growing so fast that the number of people who are illiterate is increasing.

Another reason is that the quality of education is poor in many countries, so that many people who are enrolled in school are not learning enough to be able to read and write.

There are also many people who are illiterate because they are too poor to be able to afford to go to school.

There are many more reasons, but the fact is that the number of illiterate people in the world is increasing, and this is a serious problem.

One of the ways to solve this problem is to improve the quality of education in all countries.

Another way is to make sure that everyone who is poor enough to need it can go to school.

There are many other ways to solve this problem, but the most important thing is to make sure that everyone who needs it has access to education.

Only then can we hope to reduce the number of illiterate people in the world.

It is our responsibility to make sure that everyone has access to education, and that everyone who needs it can get it.

Only then can we hope to create a world where everyone is able to read and write.
